

Intake Counselor - Groups

INTAKE COUNSELOR - GROUPS, COUNSELLING AND PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT (1.0 FTE)

You've taken your counselling practice one step further and are skilled at assessing the most appropriate services and effective approaches that might work for clients. You've expanded your knowledge of applying evidence based assessment tools and understand taking time up front to better understand client needs will lead to an improved experience and outcome. The idea of having a daily mix of client assessments, group and/or one on one counselling appeals to you.

WHAT MOVES YOU

- Working directly with men, women and children to assess their needs and connecting them with the best support the YW and community offers
- Providing evidence-based counselling interventions to children, adolescents, and/or adults in group settings
- Supporting clients to achieve goals
- Growing, learning and honing your professional practice

WHAT YOU'LL DO

- Complete referral and intake processes, including pre-service scales, with clients referred for individual, family, and/or group counselling
- Provide crisis intervention and emotional support as required
- Provide one on one counselling
- Support and play a key role in a robust & thorough intake and assessment process
- Maintain records, program reporting

WHAT YOU'VE DONE

- Master's degree in Counselling Psychology, Clinical Psychology or Social Work
- Three or more years' working with women, men, adolescents and/or children impacted by family violence within a group setting
- Knowledge of and experience delivering evidence-based intervention related to domestic violence
